MARCH OF DIMES AND ASTARTE MEDICAL SUPPORT NICU FAMILIES, STAFF THROUGH MEALS THAT MATTER Astarte Medical provides meals to nourish families and front line staff in the NICU

(Philadelphia, PA November 29, 2021)— March of Dimes, the leading nonprofit fighting for the health of all moms and babies and Astarte Medical delivered 150 meals to families and clinical care workers in the NICUs at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital and at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania on November 9th in honor of Prematurity Awareness Month. Astarte Medical is a Yardley-based precision nutrition company using software and analytics to improve health outcomes for preterm infants cared for in the neonatal ICU. These meals are a result of the generosity and dedication of Astarte Medical and prepared at Wild Blue Catering by Chef Joe Gudonis, member of ACF Philadelphia Delaware Valley Chefs Association.

“We are happy to provide nutritious meals for frontline healthcare workers in the NICU at Jefferson and HUP. They spend so much time providing nurturing care for our families, it’s time we provide for them,” said Chef Joe Gudonis

“Nutrition is such an imperative part of health, not only for these tiny infants, but for their caregivers and families,” said Tracy Warren, co-founder and CEO of Astarte Medical. “By partnering with March of Dimes, we are able to support NICU staff and families with nutritious meals so they can care for themselves while caring for their preterm infants and vulnerable babies.”

COVID-19 precautions at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania have presented limitations on who can visit and where families can eat and drink. This can make it difficult for staff and families that are spending extended time in the NICU. A healthy, nutritious meal is important to the comprehensive support team of family and clinical staff to give them sustenance and strength during stressful times.

“I was honored to have the opportunity to partner with female-owned Astarte Medical to acknowledge and celebrate the commitment, dedication, passion and care Penn and Jefferson nurses bring to support all babies every single hour of every single day.” said Cynthia Weiss, Greater Philadelphia/South Jersey March of Dimes chapter Board of Directors Chair Elect.
